Irish Party Pleased That Their Predictions Have Been Verified.

Failure of Balfour to Cripple Their Parliamentary Policy.

Will Keep the House Discussing the Scheme For Weeks.

TORIES FEAR ALL NEW LEGISLATION

A London correspondent cables the New York World that Balfour's reform of Parliamentary procedure is devised not to facilitate legislation, but to make the membership of the House of Commons exact less from a large body of casual and dilatory legislators, of whom Balfour himself is the model. The cardinal feature of his scheme is a rearrangement of the hours of the session, so as to give the members two hours to attend dinner parties and two clear days at the week's end to golf, motor or yacht. Nothing substantial is planned to enhance the efficiency of the legislative machine, as the Tories fear all new legislation and have no wish to provide weapons which a possible Radical Parliament might turn to important account.

The Irish party naturally is pleased that their predictions are verified, and that all threats of procedure reform to cripple their Parliamentary policy have ended in smoke. However, they expect to keep the House discussing this scheme for five or six weeks. Speaking on the subject of increased punishment to be meted out to members coming into collision with the Speaker—which is directed solely against the Irishmen—John Redmond, the Chairman of the Irish party, said:

"No penalty this House can impose will deter us from doing our duty as we see it. The Government may be brought face to face with a contingency in which the whole Irish representation may withdraw from this Parliament. We would prefer to see it attempt to govern Ireland arbitrarily as a crown colony than by the fraudulent pretense of constitutional rule now existing. After a few months of that experiment England would be glad enough to offer Ireland home rule."

Among the troubles Colonial Secretary Chamberlain has succeeded in creating for Great Britain is one in Malta. Last year he decreed that after the lapse of fifteen years English should be the sole official language of the island. The Maltese protested against the suppression of their national tongue. The English Liberals, whose fear of Chamberlain is ludicrous, have turned a deaf ear to the appeals and petitions from the Maltese, so J. P. Boland, a young Irish Nationalist member, supported by the Irish party, took up the Maltese case. Boland has now forced Chamberlain to withdraw the language decree and has earned the warm thanks of the Maltese, especially as Chamberlain deprived the concession of all grace by pretending it was a tribute to Italian sentiment, not to Maltese protests.

VOLUNTEER SOCIALS.

Their Euchre and Dance Will Attract Very Large Crowd.

All the arrangements have been completed for the euchre and dance at Music Hall on Monday night under the auspices of the Volunteer Socials, and the indications point to a very large crowd. Sixteen handsome and costly prizes have been secured, and the winners will have reason to consider themselves fortunate. Prominent among the lady workers who are assisting the Volunteers upon this occasion are Mesdames Ben Sandman, Mary Gleeson, Lahood Karem, James McBride and Misses Mary McElliot and Katie Foley. Play will begin at 8 o'clock sharp, that the floor may be cleared at a seasonable hour for the dancers.

Those who know Messrs. Edward J. Dalton, James McBride, A. J. Sheridan, Bob Mitchell, D. J. Gleeson and M. Lyons say they are soldiers of long experience, who never fail to entertain their friends in a manner that gives to the Volunteers a high standing socially. This will be the last opportunity to celebrate before Lent, and all who would have a jolly good time should attend.

DISCOUNT EXPIRES.

Those who fail to pay their taxes today will lose the discount allowed for prompt payment. Tax Receiver Brown and his accommodating and gentlemanly deputies have been kept exceedingly busy all this month.

SHEEDY ON HEROES.

"The way to be a hero is to try your darndest to get killed; if you don't get killed you are a hero," said Pat Sheedy as he sat in the office of a Charleston hotel the other day. "That is just the reason why Roosevelt is a popular hero."

I have asked two hundred people in the last few years where Roosevelt was in that fight at Kettle Hill, and they all say 'He was seventy-five to one hundred yards in advance of any of us, trying his best to be killed.' If he had been killed he would just have been a martyr and long ago forgotten. But as he escaped he is a hero. That is one way to be President. Try to get killed in a war, and if you don't get hit, you may run for the Presidency."

PAULIST MISSION.

Non-Catholics Only to Be Admitted to New York Church.

There will be a careful watch to keep Catholics out of the church of the Paulist fathers at Fifty-ninth street and Ninth avenue during the coming week. All persons presenting themselves after a certain hour today will be met at the door by sentinels and questioned as to their religion, says the New York Sunday World. If they reply that they are Catholics the sentinel will say, "Sorry; no admittance." If they are Protestants they will be told to come right in. The only way by which a Catholic can secure admittance is by being accompanied by a Protestant.

The Paulist fathers are conducting a mission for non-Catholics and they want to make sure that it is really persons either of no religious belief or of a denomination other than Catholic that they are addressing. The two priests of the Paulist society who are to preach at this mission are Father Elias Youman, of Calcutta, and Father Burke. This mission for non-Catholics will last till next Sunday. Besides conferences, lectures and sermons, it will include the answering in public of dogmatic questions and objections from the audience, formulated in letters placed in the "Question Box." After the mission follows a "week of inquiry," when those who may have been moved by the exposition of the fathers will have an opportunity of obtaining detailed instruction preparatory to embracing the Catholic faith.

Cardinal Gibbons ten years ago said that the Catholic church in this country makes some 60,000 converts annually. Queried recently on the same subject he refused to give definite figures, but said that the annual average number of converts has since then considerably increased.

NARROW ESCAPE.

Officer Dan Sexton Again Saves Officer Tom Connell.

Officer Tom Connell, one of the best men on the local police force, had his second narrow escape from injury within one week last Saturday night, being again saved by the prompt action and coolness of Officer Dan Sexton. Early in the week while attempting to board an electric car at Sixth and Green streets the motorman started while he was stepping up on the platform, throwing him and catching his arm in such a manner that he was dragged until Seventh street was reached, where the people who saw him succeeded in having the car stopped. Luckily Officer Sexton, who happened to be standing on the rear platform, saw his danger and by superhuman effort held his brother officer in such position that he escaped being caught under the wheels.

Saturday night again when trying to board a West Market street car his foot slipped and he came near being crushed under the wheels, but for the second time Sexton caught him, this time hauling him to the platform, the only injury sustained being a severely sprained ankle. Persons should take warning and not try to get on the street cars till they come to a full stop. It is a wonder there are not more accidents, as but few cars stop as they should.

MEETS WITH FAVOR.

An effort is being made by the parishioners of St. Augustine's church in Jeffersonville to raise funds with which to erect a monument to the late Father Ernest Audran. Father Audran spent the greater part of his life in Jeffersonville, and the suggestion to thus perpetuate his memory meets with favor.

OWN YOUR HOME.

They are a wise young man and woman who start out in their married life in a home of their own in some place where they will have green grass about their house, even if it is only a few feet. It makes no difference how humble or how modest the house may be. The smallest box of a house with a plot of green is a temple of common sense compared to the finest "flat" or "boarding house" in the city. If there is anything appropriate in this life it is that young people should live somewhere where each day they can see their own unfolding lives reflected in the unfolding works of nature. There is no beginning in the same sense to a young married life so true, so wise, so lasting and so satisfactory as that. No life in a city is comparable with that which is lived in a small house with green things growing over and around it, where God's pure sunshine bathes and sweetens every side of the house during the day, and where the surest life-giving odors that God gives to his children—the odors of soil and growing things—are blown into the house while we sleep.

FAVORS EUCBRE.

Excellent Means of Providing Amusement For Society People.

Handsome Sams Have Been Realized For Charitable Purposes.

Establish Pleasing Social Relations Between Old and Young.

SPIRITED CONTESTS FOR THE PRIZES

The social season now coming to a close has been a most enjoyable one in Louisville, scarcely a night passing without its reception, dance or euchre party, the latter perhaps being the most popular form of amusement. Indeed progressive euchre seems to have taken a firmer hold upon society this year than ever before. This is because it can be indulged in by larger numbers and with less formality than the majority of society functions, and the contest for prizes lends an added spirit that attracts many who would otherwise be practically retired from the social whirl. Another feather that popularizes this exciting game is that by this means funds may be raised for the promotion of worthy charities and laudable undertakings without burdening those of generous disposition. There is scarcely a charitable organization in this city but that has by this means entertained its members and friends and augmented its treasury during the past winter. And the amount of distress they have thereby relieved is almost incalculable, notwithstanding that much of the money thus realized has been secured in pushing to completion a number of laudable movements started in the early fall. Among the many mentioned in these columns none were more brilliant than those of the past week, which brought together larger crowds and established most pleasant social relations between old and young.

The euchre and reception given on Friday night of last week by Branch 110 of the Catholic Knights and Ladies of America of New Albany attracted the largest gathering ever assembled in Holy Trinity Hall, and was a grand success socially as well as financially. Ten elegant prizes were contested for, the lucky winners being Miss Skally, Miss Pearl Harbison, Mrs. Helm, Miss Delia Higgins, Miss Werner, Messrs. Reuever, Eagan, Kirchdorfer, John Richards and Golden. The ladies of the branch having the affair in charge were so pleased with the results that they have arranged to give another next Monday afternoon and night at Holy Trinity Hall, to which they cordially invite all their Louisville and Jeffersonville friends. The afternoon game will not be called until 2:40 o'clock, in order to give all visitors opportunity to arrive on time. Mrs. Peter Richards, President of Branch 110, will be assisted by prominent ladies and gentlemen of New Albany in receiving, and all who attend are assured a delightful time.

Music Hall never appeared brighter or more brilliant than on last Wednesday afternoon and night, when a number of ladies prominent in Louisville's leading society circles gave a social euchre for the benefit of the Sacred Heart Home on East College street. Seven hundred players sat down to the tables, the games being in charge of Misses Jennie Gies, Nannie Mason, Katie Hoffmann, Jennie Clark, Lena Hoffman and Mrs. S. D. Gillis, while Messrs. Edward J. O'Brien and Tom Evans managed the floor.

While the older people were playing in the afternoon the children were entertained in the large hall, the pupils of the St. Mary Magdalene, Holy Cross, St. Charles and St. Paul's schools attending in a body. After the games refreshments were served and an hour spent in enjoyment. Both halls were required to accommodate the throng at night, when prizes were won by Mrs. Katie Porter, Misses Katie Alvey, Annie Bosse, Ella McDermott, Bertha Young, and Messrs. Edward Rausch, Will Larkin, Andy Schuble, A. Isaacs and M. J. Doll.

Quite a number of useful and valuable articles were donated by friends to be raffled off for the benefit of the home, and after the prizes were awarded all who could do so gathered around Messrs. Andy Kast, Nick Bosler and John Coleman, who had charge of the wheel of fortune. The auctioneers kept all in the best of humor and succeeded in emptying many a pocketbook, over $200 being realized for the home.

The Sacred Heart Home, while not numbered among the strictly charitable institutions of the city, is maintained for the accommodation of deserving women who are alone in the world and who desire congenial associations and comfortable surroundings. The present building will scarcely accommodate those there now, and it is the desire of the good Sisters to purchase the adjoining lot and erect thereon an addition to the home, which has been in existence for a number of years, having been founded by Mrs. Pyne. With the money now on hand and that realized from the euchre it is hoped to accomplish the desired end. The ladies deserve credit for their excellent management.

PROMOTED.

Will Mackin Made General Manager of Button's Grocery.

Will Mackin's host of friends throughout the city are congratulating him upon his deserved promotion. About four years ago A. Button & Sons added to their many grocery stores the one at Seventh and Oak streets, and among the young clerks engaged was William J. Mackin, nephew of the late Father Mackin, and well known in the West End, where he lived until his removal to Limerick.

By his affable manner and strict attention to business he contributed much to the success of his employers, who have shown their appreciation by making him the general manager of their store. This recognition by a firm that does the largest grocery business in Louisville speaks well for the young Irish-American, whose example might well be followed by many of our young men.

LENTEN SEASON.

Regulations to Be Observed in the Diocese of Louisville.

The holy season of Lent begins Wednesday, and impressive services will be held in all Catholic churches. Right Rev. Bishop McCloskey has issued the following regulations to be observed in the Louisville diocese:

All the weeks days of Lent from Ash Wednesday to Easter Sunday are fast days, except in special cases of sickness the infirm, those who are attending their growth, those whose duties are of an exhausting or laborious character, women in pregnancy or nursing infants, and those who are enfeebled by old age.

The following dispensations are granted for this diocese by the authority of the Holy See:

First—The use of flesh meat, as also of eggs, is permitted at every meal on the Sundays of Lent and at the principal meals on Mondays, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, with the exception of Saturday in Ember week and Holy Saturday.

Second—Custom also allows the use of eggs, butter, milk, etc., at the evening collation, and also at the principal meal on the days on which the use of flesh meats is forbidden.

Third—The quality of food allowed at a collation in this diocese is bread, fruit, salads, vegetables and cold fish.

Fourth—A small piece of bread, with a cup of coffee, tea or chocolate, can be taken in the morning.

Fifth—Where it is not convenient to take the principal meal at noon it is lawful to invert the order and take collation in the morning and dinner in the evening.

Sixth—Drippings and lard may be used in the preparation of the kinds of food which are permitted.

Seventh—On Sunday there is neither fasting nor abstinence, but fish can not be used with flesh meat at the same meal on any Sunday during Lent.

Eighth—Those who are exempt from the precept of fasting can partake of flesh meat at every meal during the day when by special indulgence flesh meat is permitted at the special meal.

The time for fulfilling the Easter precept of communion in the diocese extends from the first Sunday in Lent to Trinity Sunday inclusive.

By virtue of the indulgence granted to us by the Holy See, March 15, 1895, we permit to all workingmen and their families the use of flesh meat once a day on all fast days and abstinence days throughout the year, with the exception of Friday, Ash Wednesday, the Wednesday and Saturday of Holy Week, and the eve of Christmas.

SOCIAL SEASON

Brought to a Happy Close by the Hibernians of the West End.

Reception For Those Who Assisted at the Social Sessions.

Euchre, Vocal and Instrumental Music, Refreshments and Dancing.

DIVISION 3 MAKES SCORES OF FRIENDS

Monday night at Hibernian Hall took place the last social session and reception of the season of Division 3 of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, and what memories it evoked! It was the one entertainment at which all met on an equal footing. There were neither cliques nor sets, and Messrs. John Cavanaugh, Denny Coleman, Lawrence Mackey, Thomas Quinn, Patrick Walsh, Will Burns and Hugh J. Higgins worked hard for the success of the affair, which was indeed enjoyed by the many invited guests as well as members of the division.

Once a month during the past winter this enterprising division, representing the West End, has held a social session, many young ladies and gentlemen not members of the order participating in the entertainment at loss of time and expense. These socials have added much to the reputation of Division 3 and were a source of great enjoyment to the members. But with the approach of the Lenten season festivities cease until next fall, and with their usual thoughtfulness the Literary and Entertainment Committee determined to make this one that would not be soon forgotten, sparing no effort in their endeavor to make it surpass in every way all that had preceded it.

The hall was brilliantly illuminated, and the evening's entertainment began with a euchre, twelve handsome and valuable prizes being contested for. Preceding the games John Green, who possesses an exceptionally fine voice, sang a sentimental ballad and was warmly applauded. Edwin Sabree also made many friends, singing excellently "When the Roses Bloom Again," and responding to the hearty encore with the "Fatal Rose of Red." Little Misses June and Lee Ijames also made hits with their comic songs, and a pleasing sketch by Messrs. McAtee and Bauer brought the preliminary entertainment to a close. Misses Julia and Mamie Kelly presided at the piano in a charming manner.

Promptly at 9 o'clock all who desired to play were seated and progressive euchre was played as never before, every table but one being necessary to accommodate those who wanted to capture the elegant trophies. The awards were made at 10 o'clock, the fortunate winners being Misses Mamie Sullivan, Allie Rousche, Maggie Connelly, Mrs. James Coleman, Mrs. Mary Ijames and little Tunstall Ijames; Messrs. John Richard, Edward L. Sabree, James Treacy, Martin J. Ford, Thomas Coleman and Edward Kelly, who received prizes in the order named. By a strange coincidence nearly all were won by residents of Twentieth street, who were quite exultant over their skill as players.

All were invited to be again seated, when an abundance of refreshments were served, Wathen furnishing the cream and cakes. When all were satisfied the tables were removed and an exhibition of fancy cake walking was given by John Tracy and June Ijames and Tim Golden and Miss Lida Meagher, who by their imitable evolutions caused hearty laughter. Then dancing followed until the hour for dispersing, when all left for home with words of praise for the hospitality of this great Irish organization.

KENTUCKY BEAUTIES.

They Are Rivalled Only by Girls of the Emerald Isle.

Editor Kentucky Irish American:

There are few Kentuckians, I believe, who would be willing to concede the superiority in beauty, grace and charm of the maidens of any land or clime over their own charming lassies of town or countryside. Glorious in person, song and story, and as much admired abroad as at home, it would seem impossible to find their equals anywhere in the world. But I find in the San Francisco Argonaut an individual opinion that would set aside our estimate of our own incomparable girls. The writer says:

"If asked 'Where are the prettiest girls in the world?' I will immediately reply, in Limerick, Ireland. There is a freshness of face, lustrousness of eyes, healthfulness of color and complexion about the Limerick girls, en masse, that carry off the sweepstakes trophy. The girls of Cork and of the lakes—in fact, of the country all the way down from Dublin—are somewhat of the Limerick order. In form they constitute a happy medium between the rotund English maids across one channel and the sylph-like Parisian demoiselles beyond the other. But the Limerick face is the perfection of female beauty—a human ceramic without a blemish. The Limerick girl is also the highest example of exquisite wit and ingenuousness—an extraordinary assimilation, to be sure. In other words, while she is not insensible of her sparkle of words she seems like one who has never looked frequently into a mirror. She has regular and sometimes very pretty teeth, and if her nose is often inclined to reticence and there is an 'Irish expression of mouth,' these but add piquancy to her other beautiful features."

DELMONTS DEDICATE

New Amusement Hall With Banquet and Interesting Exercises.

Monday night the friends of the Delmont Club to the number of 1,500 assembled to assist in the dedication of the new $7,500 amusement hall just completed under the supervision of Architect Charles Meyer. The guests were given a cordial welcome and good fellowship was the distinguishing feature of the celebration. The preliminary dedicatory exercises took place in the fine new bowling alleys, Messrs. Harry Weissinger, Marion Taylor, Postmaster Baker and Bob Brown rolling the first balls down the alleys. Then adjourning to the assembly hall, another new feature, four hundred were seated at tables, the big banquet being gracefully presided over by the popular President, George W. Humbert. There was plenty to eat and drink and two bands of music. After the banquet toasts were responded to and high praise bestowed upon the Delmont Club, which is in every sense a creditable social organization and deserves the magnificent success achieved during its short career. The Delmont has been a prominent factor in the social affairs of the East End, and now its membership includes some of the best known citizens of the city. Women also are frequently honored by the club with euchres and receptions, in which all the privileges of the organization are accorded the fair guests.

SULLIVAN AND DONAHUE.

The Mardi Gras festivities at New Orleans, which take place next week, will attract hundreds of thousands to the Crescent City, and for the protection of the visitors Chief of Police Jernie has asked the assistance of the most noted detectives in the United States. It is gratifying to note that among those for whom he has made special request are two members of the Louisville department, Chief William Sullivan and Martin Donahue, who left for New Orleans Wednesday. No detective department in the country bears a finer reputation than that of Louisville, hence our freedom from the notorious criminals that infest large cities.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS.

Hon. William S. McNary, of Boston, Past Deputy Supreme Knight of the Knights of Columbus, is in the South-west, where he will organize at least two new councils. This is the first time the great southwestern country has been invaded by this society. His work will be done in part in Albuquerque, New Mexico, and El Paso, Texas. The council in Albuquerque will be instituted in the shadow of a Catholic church that was built fifty years before the Pilgrims landed on Cape Cod's shores, and near the spot where the first mass was celebrated in the United States, early in the sixteenth century.

BANQUETED

Irish Members of Parliament Here to Complete Irish League.

Redmond and Devlin Expect to Remain Several Months.

The Former One of the Readiest Speakers On the Irish Benches.

DEVLIN A SUCCESSFUL ORGANIZER

William Redmond, M. P., the brother of the Chairman of the Irish party, accompanied by Joseph Devlin, who have arrived in New York on the steamship Cymric, have been commissioned by the Irish party to complete the organizing of the United Irish League throughout the United States and Canada. William Redmond has been in America several times and is well known to the leaders in the Irish movement here. He is one of the most active, readiest speakers on the Irish benches, and is generally popular in the House of Commons. Joseph Devlin has not yet entered Parliament. He is in business in Belfast, where he has a high reputation as a platform speaker and organizer. Redmond expects to remain in the United States two or three months, but Devlin will stay until the work of the mission is satisfactorily accomplished.

Both were entertained by sixty-two Irish members of Parliament at a banquet in the House of Commons on the Tuesday night preceding their departure. As no speaking is allowed in the House dining-rooms an American plan was adopted on the suggestion of Edward Blake, M. P., the two delegates standing at the door as the company left, shaking hands with each. The Irish members did not deem it advisable to leave the precincts of the House of Commons for their banquet lest the Government take advantage of their absence to carry something to which they were opposed. William Redmond is accompanied by his wife, a charming Australian lady of an Irish family, who was with her husband on some of his former visits to America.

The United Irish League is spreading rapidly throughout the country, a large number of branches being already in process of formation. Branches of the League have also been established in Providence, Trenton, Cumberland, and twelve branches have been organized in Chicago. St. Louis has also thrown itself into the movement with enthusiasm. Judge Thomas Morris being the principal mover in the work. Worcester, Bellows Falls, Syracuse, Winghamton, Buffalo, and other centers are also making arrangements to organize the League.

William Redmond, M. P., brother of the Irish leader, and Joseph Devlin, of Belfast, will speak in the Hollis Street Theater in Boston on Sunday evening, March 2, when the United Irish League will celebrate the anniversary of the birth of Robert Emmet, the martyr patriot. Mayor Patrick A. Collins will preside and introduce the speakers. The demonstration promises to be one of the most enthusiastic held in that city for years in connection with Irish affairs.

GEORGE RUHL KILLED

Run Over by Street Car and Body Was Terribly Mangled.

George Ruhl, a well known German resident of the East End, living at 524 Camp street, was run over and instantly killed by a Shelby-street electric car Wednesday morning, his body being almost severed in two and terribly mangled. The unfortunate man was crossing Shelby street, near Rapp, but did not see the rapidly approaching car. He was struck by the fender and dragged a surprising distance, when the body was forced under the car, which had to be raised with jackscrews before the dead body could be removed. Mr. Ruhl was for many years employed by Harbison & Gathright. Besides his wife he leaves two grown daughters, who were prostrated when notified of the awful catastrophe. His funeral took place Friday morning from St. Vincent de Paul's church, large numbers attending the sad obsequies.

POPE LOOKS STRONG.

"The Holy Father is looking remarkably well and strong," said Bishop Farley, of New York, to an American correspondent in Rome last Saturday. Bishop Farley, who is Archbishop Corrigan's auxiliary in the archdiocese of New York, and former District Attorney Philbin, of New York, had just been received in audience by the Pope. "I could perceive no appreciable difference," continued Monsignor Farley, "since I last saw the Sovereign Pontiff several years ago. His memory and alertness are as prodigious as ever."

Six thousand people greeted Admiral Schley at Nashville's public reception Monday night.

PRINCE OF DIPLOMATS.

The secular press makes the significant announcement that the Pope has finished a bull relating to the possessions of the friars in the Philippines, and that Washington, already aware of its contents, heartily approves of the sovereign Pontiff's recommendations. We may be sure beforehand that Leo, the greatest statesman of the age, has upheld every principle and sacred tradition regarding the inviolability of ecclesiastical property, yielding in nothing to the clamors of those who would find defects in the titles held by the religious communities to the estates which they occupy in our far-away islands.

We are glad for the honor of our Government that its course in respect to these much coveted possessions has been in accord with its generally honorable tenor toward ecclesiastical property, displaying no eagerness to confiscate, in the name of the State, acres which rightfully belong to private corporations, writes the venerable Father Cronin in the Catholic Union and Times. Secretary Root's proposal to buy out the present owners at a fair market price has at least the basis of honesty to recommend it, although the advisability of the plan may be disputed not only on economic but also on several other grounds.

Of course, if Washington concurs in the views of Rome on this momentous question voices will not be wanting to cry out that Roosevelt has gone to Canossa, and that Papal emissaries have gained a fatal foothold at the White House. The fact that Leo, the prince of diplomats, has given the only equitable and practical solution of this rather international question will be overlooked by those bigots who would rather have our Government go wrong than acquiesce in a Papal plan of settlement. Yet these disturbers are in the minority, and we feel convinced that their hostile attitude will have no effect upon the general good sense of our people or upon the determination of our Government to respect the laws of justice in the disposition to be made of these religious possessions.

The ready compliance of the United States authorities with the plan proposed by the sovereign Pontiff, instead of humiliating our Government, will exalt it in the eyes of all lovers of justice, no matter of what creed or nationality, and will be certain to contribute as much, if not more, than any other factor in bringing speedy peace to the distracted Philippines. The courtesy displayed by the Holy Father in acquainting the authorities at Washington with the terms of his plan relative to the settlement of the question before publishing it to the world at large indicates a delicacy and prudence not always present in the transactions of the purely secular diplomat.

Confident of his own position, trusting likewise to the fair-minded spirit of the American people and their representatives, the Head of Christendom fearlessly commits himself to an exact statement of the case under issue, proposing at the same time the only equitable solution of a question which, if allowed to drag its weary length along, might involve Catholics and the sects in disgraceful religious controversy. The apostolic vigor of Leo, his training and experience in honorable statecraft, the personal sanctity of the man and the momentous nature of the question to be settled, will make the forthcoming pronouncement of the Holy Father one of the most remarkable and widely read publications of the age. With the faith which children have in their great Father, Catholics feel assured beforehand that the best thoughts of the times, the soundest principles of equity and the most unswerving loyalty to the traditions of mother church will be revealed, not only to us who cherish his every word, but to those who long for solid doctrine whether of Church or of State.

PRINCE HENRY'S VISIT.

All Americans agree with the New York World in its declaration that it would be a great mistake to regard Prince Henry's visit as only a special expression of the desire of the Kaiser and his Government to honor and compliment this country. It is that and much more. The German people and the Emperor are one in this matter. If there were any doubt on this point it would be completely dispelled by the unanimous voice of the important newspaper editors of Berlin.

"Every German sincerely wishes and confidently hopes that Prince Henry's visit 'will vastly contribute toward confirming and drawing closer the cordial relations' between the German and American nations, says Dr. Wilhelm Lauser, of the official Nord-Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung. Dr. Kohnert, editor of the National Zeitung, organ of the National Liberal party, declares that the object of the Prince is "to foster the idea that good will and friendly feeling should be preserved between the two nations." Editor Bachmann, of the Vossische Zeitung, says "the wish of all true Germans who love their country" is that Prince Henry's visit will "cement the relations between the two countries." Dr. Kronsbein, of the semi-official Post, declares that in going "to greet the great American nation" the Kaiser's brother is accompanied by "the warmest sympathies of the German nation."

Editor Streit, of the Borsen Courier, the leading financial paper of Berlin, refers to the warmth of the reception the American people are preparing for Germany's royal envoy, and says it must tend to "solidify the good relations" of the two countries. Dr. Barth, leader of the chief radical party in the Reichstag, is as warm in his approval of the Prince's object as are the Government organs. It is, he observes, "of the utmost importance for Germany" to have the friendship of the American people, and to "cherish it in every direction."

CIVILIZATIONS COMPARED

A few days ago a great secular university—the Northwestern—refused point blank to admit women as students of medicine. We have had numerous mournful shrieks since the refusal, but the faculty has stood the abuse heroically. The Northwestern will not be a party to the making of any more women doctors.

And over in Scotland, as recorded in our columns last week, the trustees of one of that country's leading hospitals unceremoniously turned out a Catholic woman doctor—not because she was a Catholic, but because she was a woman. Both these incidents took place in Protestant countries, and in lands, moreover, that boast their liberality and progress, writes the editor of the Catholic Telegraph.

Nevertheless, if we look back to the despised Catholic Middle Ages we find Catholic women who were lawyers, doctors, teachers—even university professors. As a rule the so-called new woman has a mighty grievance against the church—or imagines she has; yet it is a fact that women received greater justice in the Catholic ages than they do now. Moreover it is an undeniable fact that at this very moment the Catholic University of Fribourg admits women to the study of medicine and confers diplomas upon them. We glean, furthermore, from Spanish exchanges that there are women doctors over in Catholic Spain.

The so-called new woman ought enlarge her horizon. Evidently her view is not sufficiently broad. She is looking at the church and thinks she sees it; instead she sees the cloud of abuse which intolerance has been pouring around it for centuries. Were she to come a little closer she would probably change her opinion. It would surprise her, no doubt, to learn that Catholic nuns have been urged by Bishops to vote over in Australia, and that last summer the Belgian Catholic party offered to accept the Socialists' demand that women be allowed to vote in that country. The church is not the monster some people persist in painting her.

CONTRASTS.

Analysis of the interesting census bulletins issued last week giving comparative figures of our great industries for 1890 and 1900 is well worth while. It affords the first body of evidence covering the entire country and bearing on the actual influence of trusts upon production, prices and wages. Between 1890 and 1900 the number of flouring and grist mills increased by nearly 7,000, the capital invested in them increased over $10,000,000 and annual value of their products by $47,000,000. The total number of wage-earners employed was decreased by 10,000 and the total wages paid decreased by $435,000.

The flouring and grist mill industry is completely controlled by trusts. In sharp contrast is the story told by the census figures on the cheese, butter and milk factories—which are not yet trust-owned. Within the same ten years the number of such factories has almost doubled, the capital invested and the yearly value of the product have both been doubled. At the same time the number of wage-earners has slightly increased and the total wages paid have increased by $1,748,000 a year—nearly 40 per cent. This comparison is both interesting and instructive.

Sufficient money has been expended by the organized workingmen of Kentucky in maintaining committees at Frankfort in an endeavor to secure legislation beneficial to the breadwinners of the State to have paid the campaign expenses and elected enough members to pass all bills that are necessary. What the workingmen need in the Legislature is votes, and the only sure way to secure them is to elect Senators and Representatives from their own ranks. All that has been accomplished by the committees who visit Frankfort during the past twenty years is not worth a fig. Isn't it about time the labor leaders gave this plan a trial? They surely are not afraid their fellows will throw them down, too. Give your own boys a chance and you will accomplish much more.

Who will crack this nut: Why is it Senator Hill, the great New York Democrat who passes through Louisville today with the Albany Burgess Corps, bound for New Orleans, will receive no recognition from Henry Watterson, who has won fame as an entertainer of Republican leaders? It may be because Hill is traveling with a Republican military organization, and again it may not. Henry's Democracy seems to have undergone another change.

Day by day the fact is developed that England was not the friend of the United States at the time of the outbreak of the war with Spain. The German Foreign Office has indorsed the statement that the British Government initiated the unsuccessful movement to have the big powers oppose our Government. And Britain, always treacherous and brutal, still hates America. Don't forget this.

Once more the Kentucky Legislature has killed the bill creating a State Bureau of Labor. In no State is such a bureau more needed than Kentucky, and the fear that certain persons would be appointed to the positions it created will not be accepted by the organized workers as sufficient reason for its defeat. Of all the promises made the laboring men before the election not one has yet been fulfilled.

Knocked out all around, unable to secure the Mayor's chair or a seat in the Directory of the Water Company, Paul Booker Reed has decided to light out for Mexico, declaring Louisville is doomed. The cat will come back.

Lent begins Wednesday, and all Catholics should this year observe the holy season with more than the ordinary devotions. The time for the return of such as have fallen away from their church has arrived.

SHORT AND BRIEF.

The British losses in South Africa up to January 31 reach the enormous total of 131,246. The total force of the Boers never aggregated half that number.

The bill making Labor day a legal holiday was passed by the Kentucky House last Tuesday. It is now in the Senate and will be reported favorably some time next week.

The British Government has declined Holland's offer of mediation, that the war against the Boers might be brought to an end, declaring that if the South Africans want peace they must negotiate direct.

The outlook for fall racing at Douglas Park is rather gloomy, the Western Jockey Club having refused the application for the removal of disqualification and for the assignment of dates for a meeting.

The House Committee on Elections has reported in favor of McKenzie Moss, who contested the seat of Hon. John S. Rhea, Congressman from the Third Kentucky district. Rhea's friends will renominate him again.

Representative Cochran, of Missouri, introduced a resolution Wednesday in the House, inviting President Kruger to visit the United States as a guest of the country, the sum of $25,000 to be used in defraying the expenses of his entertainment.

The Kaiser's gift to President Roosevelt's daughter, Miss Alice, in connection with the coming visit of Admiral Prince Henry, is to be a diamond studded gold jewel case. The center lid bears the portrait of the Kaiser in enamel and the imperial monogram in diamonds.

The State capitol bill has been made a special order for next Wednesday in the lower house of the Kentucky Legislature and a lively fight and close finish is anticipated. Its fate will be determined by the action of the Representatives, as the Senators strongly favor the measure.

Fire that raged for ten hours Sunday night wiped out the best business section of Waterbury, Conn., causing a loss of over $3,000,000. The fire started in the big store of the Reid & Hughes Dry Goods Company, on Bank street, and the angry flames devoured over four acres of the best buildings in the city.

A grave scandal has developed in the British War Office, it being charged that there has been a tremendous waste of the people's money, and that millions have gone into the pockets of horse buyers for the South African troops. Other vast sums have been squandered on meat and army supplies in Cape Colony. In the House of Commons Major Arthur Lee declared that he had been offered the services of the "chief horse expert" of the United States army as adviser in the purchase of American horses for the British army.

CLANCY RESIGNS.

Mr. W. P. Clancy, who for the past ten years has been Vice President and General Manager of the Louisville Packing Company, resigned his position last week because of failing health. During this long time he has been very popular with the hundreds of employees of the mammoth concern, every one of whom regrets his departure. It is probable that Superintendent John Moran, than whom there is no one more experienced or more successful in the packing business, will succeed Mr. Clancy. His appointment would give almost universal satisfaction, and all hope that it will be confirmed by the Messrs. Cudahy.

LONG LIFE ENDS.

Michael McDermott, aged ninety-five years, died Thursday afternoon at his home, 1105 Dumesnil street. Deceased was the father of Michael McDermott, with the Kentucky Stove Company, and was a man remarkable in many ways. He was a native of Ireland, where he learned the carpenter trade before coming to America fifty years ago, at which he worked until he was ninety years old. Until quite recently his sight was good and he had the use of all his faculties. He only began to fail before Christmas, but it was then seen that the end was not far off. His funeral takes place this morning from St. Louis Bertrand's church.

The Night Hawk Euchre Club was pleasantly entertained Tuesday evening by Mrs. Richard J. Curran at her beautiful home, 237 East Ormsby avenue. The parlors were handsomely decorated and the favors exquisite. After the games the guests were seated to an elegant luncheon. Mrs. Curran is indeed an ideal hostess.

William Duddy and Miss Alice Hickey, well known young people of the West End, were quietly united in marriage by Rev. Father Conniff, and it was not until Tuesday that the pleasing news was made known to their many friends. They had long been sweethearts and the announcement was no great surprise, as they were both known to be adverse to any ostentatious display.

The Married Woman's Club of Holy Trinity church, New Albany, gave another of their delightful social and euchre parties last Tuesday afternoon and night, which was largely attended. The euchre and social Wednesday night under the auspices of St. Edward's Cadets at St. Joseph's Hall was as successful socially and otherwise as any ever given by a Catholic society in New Albany. AWFUL DEATH.

Walter Sinkhorn's Skull Is Crushed and Both Arms Broken.

Walter Sinkhorn, one of the best men in the city's service, met an awful death Sunday morning. While making repairs to the fire alarm telegraph line, caused by the storm of Saturday night, he had to climb a pole covered with ice and sleet in front of Christ Church Cathedral on Second street. Just as he reached the top his spurs failed to hold and the unfortunate man was dashed headforemost to the stone pavement, his head being crushed and both arms broken at the wrist. Tom Devine and John Sinkhorn, a brother, ran to the injured man, but they found him beyond their help.
They had him at once removed to the City Hospital, where he lay unconscious until he died at 8:30 o'clock. The deceased was the son of William Sink-horn, for many years a member of the local police force and keeper at Central station. He was unmarried and resided with his aged parents at 1700 Pope street. The funeral services were held Thursday morning and were largely attended, the Mose Green Club being present in a body.

GAIN A SEAT.

The election for member of Parliament in the East Division of County Down, to succeed Dr. J. A. Rentoul, Conservative, elected without opposition in 1900, who was recently appointed a Judge of the city of London, has resulted as follows:
James Wood, Land Purchase candidate,
3,576; Col. R. H. Wallace, Unionist, 3,429; Wood's majority 147. The result is that the opposition gains a seat in Parliament. James Wood is a lawyer and farmer and was the pledged nominee of the farmers' and laborers' unions. In his election address Wood said that he was, and always had been, a Unionist by conviction.

DIED IN TEXAS.

Word was received here Monday of the death at Dallas, Texas, of Miss Geraldine Campion, who resided in this city until about a year ago. She was the daughter of Ben and Mary Byrne Campion, and the news was an awful shock to their Louisville friends. Miss Campion, who was but twenty-three years old, was the granddaughter of Patrick Campion, who for many years represented the First ward in the Kentucky Legislature. Her remains were interred at Dallas.

MASQUE EUCHRE.

Monday night a unique entertainment will occur under the auspices of Mackin Council at the club house on Twenty-sixth street. The young people will have a masque euche, the first of the season, and the last of the series given by the Young Men's Institute for the furnishing of their ward in the new St.
Anthony's Hospital.

CENTRAL COMMITTEE.

Next Friday night the Central Committee of the Catholic Knights of America will hold the regular monthly meeting at St. Mary's Hall. The committee have about $400 in the treasury, which many want disbursed, and initiatory steps may be taken for a grand union entertainment.

FASHION'S FOIBLES.

Spring fabrics are more varied than
was ever known before.

Colored velvet collars are sometimes worn with the black waists, the latter, by the way, being a special feature of evening dress and being worn with colored skirts.

Cloth, silk and velvet, all in one color,
make a lively combination if tastefully put together, but a fourth material seems to be superfluous, yet it is the clever combinations which count for so much this season.

A pretty model for a gray cloth gown
shows one of the new skirts with hip yoke and plaits below caught together with herringbone stitch. Cord tucks finish the hem and the bolero is trimmed with chinchilla and lace.

The difference between the present lace bertha and one of yesterday is in fullness and width. There must be very little of the frilly effect. On the contrary, it fits the shoulders quite closely with possibly narrow frills for a finish.

Moire effects very prettily subdued are very much in evidence among the new silks, and you see them in the Louisi-
silk patterned all over with a mixed shadowy design shading into itself with soft harmonious tints and having no visible outline.

One material applied on another is the order of the day, and even lace itself is not elaborate enough for this rapid age without added decoration in the way of velvet and silk applique, beside various kinds of embroidery done in colored silks, gold thread and tiny imitation jewels.

Brocaded silks are here again for gowns of ceremony, some of them interwoven with gold and silver thread. It is well to notice that the modish velvets are not displayed on the bargain counter to any great extent, or we can rest assured that the velvet gown will be the grand mode next winter.

In some instances padding is resorted to in order to fill in any possible curve to the figure directly in front. Princess velvet gowns are treated in this way sometimes with good effect, but this is a movable feature, not a fixture in the fashion world, and quite dependent on the conditions to be regulated.

A special novelty brought over this season is French crystalline, more silky
in finish than any preceding variety.
The fabric is merized before the fabric is woven, giving quite a different appearance from the other merized goods. It comes in a variety of colors which are warranted to be fast, but the pure white is the most attractive of all.

CHARLES L. JACQUES

Succumbs After Long Struggle With the Grim

Reaper.

Charles Louis Jacques, the nineteen-year-old son of Charles N. and Eliza
Farley Jacques, died at the family home, 2422 St. Xavier street, Tuesday at midnight, after an illness of several months' duration. Hopes were entertained for his recovery until last Sunday, when pneumonia developed, from which time he failed very fast until the end, which came peacefully. The funeral, which was largely attended, was held Thursday morning from St. Cecilia's church, where solemn high mass of requiem was offered by Rev. Andrew Brady, assisted by Rev. Father Kallagher and Rev. Hugh Brady as deacon and subdeacon, the latter preaching a feeling and eulogistic sermon. Deceased was a young man of exemplary life, peaceful disposition and kindly nature. He was popular with all who knew him, and his early death is sincerely deplored by hosts of friends,
many of them made during his short connection with the Kentucky Irish American, which he left to take a good position on Main street. Words are inadequate to express the feelings of sympathy felt for the bereaved father and mother, whose fondest hopes were centered in their noble boy. May his soul rest in peace.

WELCOME VISITOR.

The Kentucky Irish American was glad to have a visit this week from Mr.
Daniel McCarthy, a prominent Hiber-nian and leading citizen of Sandusky, Ohio, who arrived here Monday night to be the guest of his brother, Patrick Mc-Carthy, 1952 Floyd street, until after St.
Patrick's Day. The genial visitor made many friends while here last year who will be glad to again welcome him.

BAZAR MADE MONEY.

The bazar given for the Sisters of Mercy Hospital at Spith's Theater in Jeffersonville came to a successful close last night. The Sisters have established there one of the finest hospitals in Indiana, which reflects great credit on the Catholics of our neighboring city.
Though continuing but three nights a handsome sum was realized for this worthy institution, Protestants showing their appreciation by attending in large numbers.

FINALLY DECIDED.

Manager Bob Gray has announced that the date of the McGovern-Sullivan contest has been definitely settled for February 22. Both men are training hard for the bout, which means a fortune to the winner, and should prove the best fight

ADVICE TO WOMEN.

Bishop Scannell Deplores
Their Usurpation of Men's Place.

The Sisters of Mercy of Mount St.
Mary's Academy at Omaha held an entertainment last week for the benefit of the cooking school at which the Right Rev. Bishop Scannell presented some new ideas on domestic economy. Bishop Scannell deplored the tendency of the day to place women in business instead of in the household. He said the stringency in the domestic labor market was a direct result of the education of today,
which is training girls to despise menial tasks. The natural result of such education would be a decline, physically and intellectually, in the race. And men, he said, whose places in business were being usurped by women, would have to become domestics to preserve the social equilibrium.

THEATRICALS.

Mary Manning appears at Macauley's
the first half of next week in "Janice Meredith," followed by "The Burgomaster," presented by the same company seen here last year.

The bill announced for next week at the Temple is good from start to finish and well worth the attention of those who enjoy a lively and diversified entertainment. Jesse Bartlett Davis, who is too well known to need introduction,
heads the list.

"One of the Bravest" will make its appearance at the Avenue next week. This play has the proud distinction of creating as much enthusiasm in Great Britain
as it has done in America. The principal cities in England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales were covered by Charles McCarthy
in the play. Most of the engagements were by special request, as the various chiefs of fire departments were extremely desirous of witnessing the many devices
the fire fighters of New York City use in extinguishing conflagrations and the saving of life. All the apparatus, etc., now in use here and abroad will be seen in the great fire scene of "One of the Bravest."

The Merry Maidens, headed by jolly Nellie Hanly, will hold the boards at the Buckingham next week and present
two new, bright and sparkling burlesques, entitled "A Gay Time at the Capital" and "A Bath Beach Burglar," just the kind of productions that are attractive to people who come on pleasure bent and demand something out of the ordinary diversification. A feature of the performance, seen here for the first time,
will be the original Madison Square Cycle Whirl, introducing the champion riders of the country, John Lawson, the Terrible Swede, and Lester Wilson, whose act is the most daring ever attempted. The olio is first class, introducing a large number of clever artists
in inimitable and mirth-provoking acts,
and the scenery and costumes are elaborate and elegant. The usual matinees will be given.

NEW YARDS WIN.

The State Railroad Commission decided the complaint of the Central Stock Yards Company against the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company in favor of the former Thursday night.
The Central Stock Yards Company was sustained upon every contention, and thus scores a great victory, which will be hailed with delight by shippers and traders.

SECURED GOOD POSITION.

The many Kentucky friends of Jerre J.
Constantine are glad that he has secured
the position as assistant telegraph operator in the National House of Representatives. Before leaving for Washington he visited St. Mary's Catholic College near Lebanon, where his son Will is being educated. His daughter, Miss Winnie is at the famous Cardome College, where she will remain until the return of her parents. Mr. Constantine's mother resides in this city.

EDITOR VS. DOCTOR.

A Western paper, identity unknown—which is a pity, for we would be glad to give due credit—thus moralizes on the work of the editor as compared with that of the physician:

The doctor from Algona said that newspapers are run for revenue only. What in thunder do doctors run for, anyway?
Do they run for glory? One good, healthy doctor's bill would run this office for six months.

An editor works a half day for $3, with an investment of $3,000; a doctor looks wise and works ten minutes for $200, with an investment of three cents for catnip and a pill box that costs $1.37.

A doctor goes to college for two or three years and gets a diploma and a string of words the devil himself can not pronounce, cultivates a look of gravity that he palms off for wisdom, gets a box of pills, a cayuse and a meat saw and sticks out his shingle as a full-fledged doctor. He will then doctor you until you die at a stipulated price per visit and put them in as thick as your pocketbook will permit.

An editor never gets his education finished. He learns as long as he lives and studies all his life. He eats bran mash and liver; he takes his pay in turnips and hay, and keeps the doctor in town by refraining from printing the truth about him.

If we didn't get some glory out of it
we would agree to take one of his pills after first saying our prayers. If the editor makes a mistake he has to apologize for it. But if the doctor makes a mistake he blames it.

If the doctor goes to see another man's wife he will charge the man for the visit.
If the editor calls on another man's wife
he gets a charge of buckshot.

RIGHT START.

Rousing Meeting Witnesses Installation of Irish-American Society Officers.

Nine Applications Received and Preparations Made For Big Initiation.

President Flynn Names Standing Committees For Coming Year.

ELOQUENT ADDRESS BY TOM WALSH

Judging from the expressions heard everywhere the new administration of the Irish-American Society have made the right start. The new officers were installed Thursday night, the ceremonies being witnessed by an unexpectedly large number of members. Though the weather was quite disagreeable Hibernian Hall was well filled with men who expressed themselves as determined to do active work for this patriotic fraternal organization, the membership of which they hope to swell to 1,000. In the absence of ex-President Joe Nevin and the Vice Presidents the installation ceremonies were conducted by Thomas D. Claire, Vice President Tarpey arriving just as they were over. Treasurer Tom Keenan and Financial Secretary Will Lawler were not present, but the obligation was administered to the following:

President—John J. Flynn.
First Vice President—M. W. Murphy.
Second Vice President—J. F. Chester.
Recording Secretary—Jerry King.
Sergeants-at-Arms—J. J. Casey.
Sentinel—Tim Lyons.

A special committee escorted the officers to their chairs, and upon being introduced President Flynn expressed his appreciation of the honor conferred upon him and the responsibility of his position. His manner and words favorably impressed those present, who feel that the affairs of the Irish-American Society will continue to be transacted in a business-like manner. All were urged to give him their hearty and united support in an effort to make the organization all that its founders contemplated. As President he would insist upon a strict compliance with the laws as laid down in the constitution, and the liberty and justice therein advocated would be accorded each and every member. President Flynn has the right conception of the duties of a presiding officer, and will not tolerate waste of time in idle debate or discussion of matters foreign to the question under consideration. This will obviate tiresome meetings and insure adjournment at a seasonable hour.

Applications for membership were received from Messrs. Martin McKenzie, James O'Connor, John Swift, Phil Soden, William White, Andrew Casey, Pat Scanlon and Thomas O'Mara. They were referred to special committees, and if the reports are favorable they will be initiated at the next meeting.

Besides the foregoing there are about twenty others to be initiated. Resolutions were adopted instructing the officers to prepare for a big initiation on February 20, and to notify all candidates to present themselves that night.

Messrs. Tom Tarpey, Pat Welch and Tom Claire, of the Revision Committee, asked for suggestions from the members, and the discussion evoked from Attorney Tom Walsh one of the most spirited and eloquent addresses heard during the past year. The members were told to emulate Goldsmith, Curran, O'Connell, and the Irishmen who had attained eminence the world over, his closing words receiving hearty applause.

The question of celebrating the anniversary of Robert Emmet was referred to the Entertainment Committee. Owing to the short space of time intervening it would be almost impossible to arrange for a public celebration, therefore it is safe to predict that if any exercises are held they will take place at Hibernian Hall on the regular meeting night, March 6.

Before adjourning President Flynn announced the following standing committees for the ensuing year:

Executive—Joseph W. Byrne, Chairman; Thomas D. Claire, James Welsh, Joseph Nevin, William Murphy, Thomas Tarpey, Steve McElliot, Mike Francis, Thomas Cleary.

Entertainment—Thomas Tarpey, John F. Chester, Joseph W. Byrne, Patrick Connaughton, Sam Cross.

Grievances—Thomas D. Claire, William M. Higgins, Thomas Walsh, Martin Minogue, Pat Welch.

Membership and Good of the Order—Jerry King, Mike Francis, John Chester, Mike McGillicuddy, John McLaughlin.

All members who have proposed candidates are requested to see that they are present February 20 for initiation.

ELECTED OFFICERS.

St. Joseph's Society of New Albany, composed of prominent Catholics of St. Mary's congregation, has elected the following officers, who were installed this week:

President—John Eshrich.
Vice President—John Belvy.
Secretary—Peter Palmer, Sr.
Treasurer—Nicolas Kanapple.
Trustees—Charles Dick, Joseph Guenter and Louis Zipp.

This organization has long been in existence, but was never in better condition than now, having a very large membership and a good treasury.

The Germans make the most delicious pancakes by adding stewed pineapples to a plain pancake batter of eggs, flour and milk. Pour out the batter into a large buttered frying pan that is large enough to cook it all. The pan should be at least twelve inches in diameter and the batter thin. When the batter has been poured into the pan cover it at once with stewed pineapples and dredge them with powdered sugar. Put the pan into a quick oven and the cake bake for seven minutes. Cut the cake into triangular pieces like pie when it is served.

HIBERNIANS.

What They Have Been Doing the Past Week—General News Notes.

Divisions 1, 2 and 4 meet next week, beginning Tuesday night.

The next initiation ceremonies will take place under the auspices of Division 8.

Division 2 should have a large meeting Thursday night to welcome the new members.

Many members are advocating a union meeting of all the divisions to commemorate the anniversary of Robert Emmet.

Division 3 of Hartford, Conn., is in a flourishing condition. It has nearly 300 members and about $3,000 in its treasury.

There is much quiet work being done in New Albany, which gives color to the rumor of a great surprise for Hibernians in the near future.

The degree staff of Division 10 of Chelsea, Mass., worked the four degrees on twelve candidates for Division 28 of Revere on February 3.

New Hampshire Hibernians are preparing for big celebrations of St. Patrick's day. The six divisions of Dover are completing arrangements for their annual parade, which will be participated in by other Irish-American societies.

Jeffersonville Hibernians are doing good work for the celebration of St. Patrick's day. They have secured Speith's Theatre for March 17, and the exercises will include the presentation of a drama by members and friends of the order.

The Irish of Providence will have a monster parade on St. Patrick's day. Every division will be in line, and Col. McGann has accepted an invitation to turn out with six companies of the Second regiment. The Hibernian division will be marshaled by James Skeffington.

The Hibernians of Bristol county, Mass., will commemorate St. Patrick's day by having a parade in New Bedford and a celebration. County President Conely has been elected chief marshal, and all Catholic societies in the county have received invitations to take part.

RECENT DEATHS.

It was with feelings of the deepest sorrow that the many friends of Mrs. Ella P. Shanley learned of her death at the Gray-street Infirmary on Wednesday. She was the wife of Richard G. Shanley, with the Harris-Gayle Carbonator Company, who with two children survive her. Mrs. Shanley was a devoted wife and loving mother, and to know her was to admire her. She was a Christian woman of generous impulse, always ready to aid those in distress, and her place will be hard to fill. Her funeral took place yesterday morning from the family residence, 120 East Chestnut street, and her body now sleeps peacefully in beautiful Cave Hill. To the bereaved husband and children we offer our heartfelt sympathy.

Last Sunday evening, just when life seemed brightest, the soul of Mrs. Mamie Hoben, beloved wife of Joseph Hoben, of 2132 Cleveland avenue, winged its flight to its eternal home, leaving besides her husband one little child to mourn her unexpected death. Mrs. Hoben, who was only twenty-six years old, succumbed to the dread disease pneumonia. Before marriage she was Miss Mamie Molloy and was very popular among her wide circle of friends. Her funeral took place Tuesday morning from St. Cecilia's church, where solemn mass of requiem was sung for the repose of her soul. Heartfelt sympathy is felt for the bereaved husband and motherless child.

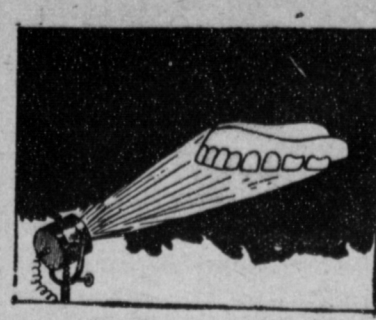

The funeral of Mrs. Charles Burton last Monday afternoon saddened the hearts of many whose lasting friendship she had gained, the last sad obsequies being conducted at the Broadway Methodist church by Rev. Felix Hill. Beautiful and numerous were the floral tributes, the design from the Courier-Journal printers covering the entire casket. Mrs. Burton, who was but twenty-four years old, was the daughter of William Thompson and a bride of less than a year. Sincere sympathy is everywhere felt for the bereaved husband.

Zack Gleason, the well known New Hope hotel man, died at that place Saturday of blood poisoning after a short illness, in the forty-fourth year of his age. His remains were interred Sunday after the late mass in St. Vincent's cemetery. Rev. Father Jenkins conducted the service. He was a good citizen and had many warm personal friends. He leaves a wife and two children, who have the deepest sympathy of all in their sad bereavement.—[New Haven Echo.

Frank Wiegand, the aged and respected father of John Wiegand and Mrs. Mary Mullen, died Saturday night at his home, corner of Maple and Wall streets, Jeffersonville, where he had resided for many years. His wife survives him and has the sympathy of the community in her great bereavement. The funeral took place Monday from St. Anthony's church, of which deceased was a devout and faithful member.

The death of Mrs. Susan Reising cast a deep gloom over New Albany Catholic circles this week. She was a devout and regular communicant of St. Mary's church and an exemplary Christian woman whom all loved. Her funeral took place Monday morning, Rev. Dean Fallor celebrating the solemn high mass of requiem.

The new skirts are very full indeed except directly around the hips, and you see many hip yokes, either of shirring, tucking or tiny bands joined with an open stitch. A pretty skirt model for mull and batiste is in box plaits from the waist to the knees, below which there are insertions of cream lace set in around above the hem and outlined with the narrow gathered ribbon in color, if the gown is white.
